

The Kenton County Airport Board Selects New Senior Project Manager/Engineer

Alison Chadwell, P.E.

The Kenton County Airport Board has selected Alison Chadwell to be the new Senior Project Manager/Engineer at the Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky International Airport (CVG) beginning February 27.

In her new role, Chadwell is responsible for planning and managing engineering related design and construction projects for the Kenton County Airport Board. She will also manage Airport and Tenant projects at CVG and will coordinate all phases of development including requests for proposals for architectural/engineering services, development of plans and specifications, project budget and schedules, construction, construction administration and inspection and project closeout.

Chadwell's 18-year engineering background includes a variety of civil engineering projects from private site development, various Air National Guard Projects, federal developments, to highway design. Chadwell has already been in the position of designing and coordinating several recent projects either directly for CVG, or for private developers on CVG owned property through her position as a Senior Project Manager with Viox and Viox. Prior to that, she was a Project Manager with GRW Engineers, Inc.

Chadwell has a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering the University of Kentucky and she is a licensed Professional Engineer (PE).
