

The Indianapolis Airport Authority Announces New Appointment for Director of Business Development

Mark Busalacchi

INDIANAPOLIS, IN – The Indianapolis Airport Authority has named Mark Busalacchi as the new Director of Business Development at the Indianapolis International Airport (IND). He began his new role in April, 2015.

In his new position, Busalacchi is responsible for managing the airport's business development strategy, including land development and air service operations, as well as negotiating strategies for new and critical revenue generating areas. His primary focus will be new development and/or significant redevelopment in supporting IAA's land development strategy, and establishment of strategic direction on critical revenue streams.

Busalacchi brings over 15 years of aviation experience to his position at IND. Most recently, he served for four years as the Director of Business Development at the Southwest Florida International Airport (RSW). Prior to that, he held positions at JetBlue Airways and Prime Flight Aviation Services.

"IND is a great airport with very forward thinking leadership," said Busalacchi. "I'm really humbled to be a part of this team and I look forward to living in this diverse and thriving community."

Busalacchi holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Mass Communications & Public Relations from the University of Wisconsin.

This search was conducted by ADK Executive Search, a retained executive search firm specializing exclusively in searches for the aviation community.

###