The Airport

Ogden Regional Airport (OGD) is a regional airport with commercial flights, general aviation service, and affordable, high-quality space for other aviation and aerospace uses. From aerospace engineering to skydiving, you can find it all at OGD!

Ogden Airport's annual economic benefits to the community are significant per the 2021 Utah State Economic Impact report.

On November 29, 2023, Breeze Airways announced Air Service from OGD to John Wayne / Orange County Airport (SNA) will begin four times weekly on February 21, 2024. Service is currently provided by an Airbus A-220 aircraft with 137 seats on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays. 2021 was a record year for airline passenger traffic at OGD with over 59,000 passengers served.

OGD is an FAA certified Part 139 airport, with an FAA control tower, two runways, and an all-weather, 24-hour precision ILS approach capability. DC-9s, MD-80s, Airbus 319/320s, and Boeing 737/757 class aircraft regularly use the airport for cargo, charter operations, and scheduled airline services. The airport is also a weather diversion alternative for the Salt Lake City International Airport.

Ogden Regional Airport is one of Utah's busiest municipal airports, and the home for over 300 private aircraft based at the airport. With the addition of commercial and charter passenger service beginning in late 2012, the airport has grown rapidly. New infrastructure is being constructed now to allow for new hangar locations on both sides of the airport.

Three fixed-base operators (FBOs) provide fueling services at Ogden Regional Airport, as well as other aviation services: Kemp Jet Services, CB Jet Center / CB Skyshare, and Mountain Valley Aviation. Other companies at the airport offer aircraft maintenance, repair, and overhaul. There are multiple flight schools at OGD. For more detailed information, please visit Airport Services.
